Berlin Boombox (30 Oct - 20 Nov)

Germany

Axel Pfaender is a Berlin-based illustrator and DJ who decided to combine his two passions – music and design. In 2012 he started a Kickstarter project to get the necessary funds to bring the Berlin Boombox to the market. Finally, in September the first black and white model was launched and since then, they are continuously developing new designs and colourways. Don't be shy and get into to the new Old School!

Berlin Boombox portable speakers bring together the classic boombox style with today's technology. Its fresh bold graphics and Old School shape makes of these speakers the perfect eye-catchers.

Berlin Boombox delivers high quality powerful sound due to its built-in German technology and it's compatible with every smartphone and mp3. The speakers are made out of recycled cardboard and features a strong carrying handle and a beautiful aluminium knob for power and volume control. It comes flat packed as a DIY kit easy to assemble, glue-free and tool-free. You can do all of this without any geek knowledge, so don't be afraid, choose yours and let's rock!
